Vlad's most recent procedure

Vlad Laurent had another procedure on his injured knee earlier this month. Here's his recap, in his own words.

The doctor realigned the knee bones from the outside of the body using manual manipulation, and specialized tools to place the bone in place in order for the knee to be able to bend properly. This closed reduction in the left knee is to set the bone back into its proper anatomical position.

I will have to come back in a few months to do an X-ray after this procedure to ensure that the bones are properly aligned and healed.

Now, I have to use only one crutch instead of two and to continue the therapy in Jacmel when I leave here in two more weeks, and at home I have to use small water bags for weight on the left leg to put pressure on it to bend even more. Also, hot water therapy on the knee to loosen the veins.

Vlad's knee following January procedure.

He can bend his knee about 30%. With continued therapy he hopes to get to 60%.
